Vol. XVIII.]

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1818

[No. 5164.]

For the prevention and cure of
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
is recommended
Hahn's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than convulsions of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases estimated as desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,
A sovereign remedy for colds, obetinate coughs, asthma, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.— To persons who have children afflicted with the HOPPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,
Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Disorders Violent cramps in Consumptions the stomach and Lowness of spirits the back
Loss of appetite Indigestion
Impurity of blood Melancholy
Hysterical affection Gout in the stomach Inward weaknesses Pains in the limbs and debility Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.
A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.
Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & Genuine German Corn Plaster.
An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.
So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water, A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of nature weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.
The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops.
For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Saturday, February 28, 1818.

The House of Representatives assembled this day, being in the notion, as it should seem, to make up for their expenditure of time in long-winded speeches, by cramming as much business as they possibly can into the residue of the session. It might not be a bad expedient, as the gentlemen seem desirous to hasten home to their farms, clients, patients and families, to appoint a committee to enquire and report what parts of the vast mass of business which remains untouched it may be expedient to take up first; and if any parts of the public concerns are to resign its post to the convenience and personal accommodation of the individual selves, to mark out what parts those ought to be. For instance, the expatriation bill, which took up Friday and Saturday, might advantageously have yielded up its place to any other. First, because it produced nothing; and next, because it would be in effect, if it had passed, to all intents and purposes, a nullity. For, as I said in my letter in which I announced Mr. Robertson's first proposition respecting it, it could confer no right practically which the people of the United States do not already, whenever they please, exercise without interruption. The measure, therefore, seems to have originated in that appetite which numbers among us have, ever since the French revolution, been teased with, to stand up champions of a new and untried code of principles in direct contravention of those established over the Christian world for centuries. Whether this appetite savours more of Don Quixotte or of Hudibras, of Ralph or Sancho Panca, I will not pretend to say, because I think that it sometimes smacks of one, sometimes of the other, and is sometimes as mad as the one, and still more mean and ridiculous than the other. Whether it be conformable to prudence, in the situation of our country, to be turning out prize fighter on every occasion without any reasonable motive; or like Paddy, in an Irish fair, to clap our hat upon a post and cudgel it, crying out "Who dare take that hat's part?" by the way of rendering ourselves conspicuous, I wish all whom it concerns may duly consider. The question of expatriation was contested with a degree of resolute pertinacity, which, if exercised in a case of beneficial practical policy, would have done credit to the hearts of the gentlemen concerned, but when the house, for the purpose of getting rid of the bill, decided by 70 votes to 58 that the first section should be struck out, it was certainly not one of those vital measures, for the accomplishing of which it was worth while, in sound discretion, or even in what is called patriotism, to subvert the established rules of parliamentary conduct.

Mr. Lowndes has, by his able and successful opposition to the useless, wild and chimerical projects of this bill, done himself great honor.

Mr. Clay, in the course of the debate, held forth anew his opinions and purposes respecting the S. American Patriots. You know that my opinions, at least my feelings, have gone a great length in favor of those oppressed colonists—and I venture to affirm that, without having any object personal to myself in view—without having even an election to the office of member of congress to spur up the flanks of my patriotism, and abhorring the whole pernicious trade of popularity seeking not less than I do any other clumsy mode of public fraud—indeed regarding it as infinitely less ingenious, honorable and dignified than the juggling tricks of the renowned orientalist of the theatre, SENA SAMA, my zeal in the cause of the South Americans is as warm as that of Mr. Clay, or any of the zealous, honorable friends who humbly walk in his train. I hate Ferdinand, too, an entirely as if he were a professed Jacobin—but the security of our own country must first be provided for. Caution is necessary.

ary—the return of the mission to South America will assuredly afford us just grounds on which to proceed, and ought to be waited for out of national policy and discretion, as well as respect to the executive.

Mr. Forsyth expressed his approbation of Mr. Clay's promise, and pledged himself to justify the conduct of our government on the subject.

Yesterday, the legislature proceeded by joint ballot, to the election of a Director of the Board of Public Works, in the place of James Madison, who declined his late appointment. Three gentlemen were put in nomination: General Armstrong, T. Mason, of Louisville, was elected on the first ballot by 95 out of 145 votes.

The house of delegates yesterday passed the bill, changing the time of the meeting of the next general assembly. The time named in the bill is the second of November.

The senate have agreed to the resolutions of the other house, for making additional exertions to obtain subscriptions for erecting a monument to Gen. Washington—and for obtaining a model for it, the cost of which is to come out of the public treasury.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

The annual Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of South Carolina was held in St. Michael's Church on Tuesday the 17th inst when the Rev. Christopher E. Gadsden, D. D. was elected president, and the Rev. John Jacob Tschudy, A. M. was re-elected secretary and treasurer. On the following day the Rev. Nathaniel Bowen, D. D. late rector of Grace Church, New York, was unanimously elected, by both orders, bishop of the Diocese of South Carolina.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTH DAY.

Our two national festivals, instituted, the one to celebrate the morning of our independence, the other to commemorate the birth and virtues of its chief founder, were not appointed by the priests, or enacted by the legislators of North America. Both have been ordained by the people in the plenitude of their autocratical capacity. Being myself one of the people merely, and without aspiration to any other distinction, it would be repugnant to popular self-love if I did not appropriate institutions which the popular sovereignty has ordained. But such self-complacency apart, these festivals appear well adapted to cherish and propagate patriotic sentiments. Both are the primary festivals of the only great republic that exists in this age, or that probably will exist for several ages to come. As such, they are correctly characterized by exhibitions of general joy and gratitude. I trust I am not singular in the opinion which I entertain that the commemoration of deeds beneficial, and events important, to the republic, ought to be fixed to stated days, the more certainly to perpetuate them to posterity. Is it to be ascribed to prejudice, or only to the bias of associations favorable to the dignity of man, that I love to look for the vestiges of liberty to the illustrious free states of antiquity? Who will deny that their most distinguished public amusements were rendered politically subservient to noble purposes? Who does not know that Sparta, as well as Athens, employed public festivals to foster public spirit?

The dominant genius of America, at present, I fear, inclines most of her sons too much to the acquisition or desire of private wealth, and too little to the ascendancy of public spirit. Nay, is there not, at this time, circumstantial presumptive evidence abroad tending to demonstrate that even a majority of our lawgivers love property more than liberty? Is it then injudicious for us, the people, to correct the former propensity and promote the latter, by celebrating annually the birth day of American freedom, and that of the hero who led our gallant armies to achieve it?

The great festival instituted at Athens in the earliest ages of Greece, in honor of Minerva, was, after the lapse of ages, revived by Thucydides to commemorate the union of all the people of Attica by their representatives. Poetical, and other contests, calculated either to exercise the body or exalt the mind, were ordained and established. One of the subjects annually proposed was the eulogium of Theseus, an hero who had rescued that republic from the yoke of tyrants. Why should not such policy of those enlightened Athenians be adopted or imitated by the enlightened Americans?—Can it be injudicious, in this "land of the free and home of the brave," to cultivate by similar institutions love of country and deeds of heroism? To celebrate certain days as memorials, as monuments for those citizens who have eminently served our republic; and as lessons, as incentives for those who shall hereafter be called upon to serve it?

The mode of such commemoration may be so diversified as to be rendered comendous to every section of our great republican empire. Local genius can easily invent or adapt modes suitable to our modern manners and American usages. Perhaps some of those which fashion has incomparably prescribed ought to be changed. Those, however, among the existing modes which imply temperate festivity, the charm of music, and the presence of accomplished females, require but little innovation. Owing to the prevailing manners, processions, orations, dancing and music, are with us unquestionable entertainments. Impressed by such ideas, I cheerfully assisted at the late ball in Fredericksburg given as on the anniversary of Washington's birth day. I felt it becoming a faithful citizen and zealous son of liberty thus to commemorate the merits of the man "first in peace, first in war, first in the hearts of his countrymen." In contemplating the character of such glorious patriots, and retracing from recollection, the causes of their glory, the dormant public spirit of individuals is awakened and invigorated. The occasion, indeed, seemed spontaneously to exhilarate all minds, and harmonize all hearts. The old and the middle aged, the young and the beautiful, the grave and the sprightly, appeared to sympathize in feelings of joy, exultation and gratitude.

For my own part, I have been so much habituated to solitary thinking, that I am commonly visited by some train of involuntary reflections even in a public ball room. On this occasion, I recollected that Washington himself, who had religion without austerity, dignity without haughtiness, modesty without bashfulness, and politeness without affectation, during a part of his life not only delighted in dancing, but personally partook of that elegant exercise. For, when a youth, I have more than once seen him at balls and concerts. As a public man, I had frequent access to him on other occasions afterwards, when the gravity of his public functions forbid him such indulgence or relaxation. Then, indeed, his public character had become so effulgent, that his private virtues (or faults, if he had any) seemed to disappear as if dissolved in the radiance of his renown. But, at a period still later, his retreat from public life, his devotion to domestic pursuits, and, above all, the eager curiosity of mankind to learn by what previous training a character so transcendent had been formed, have contributed to enlarge my acquaintance with his private qualities. It is now manifest, both from authentic annals and from his domestic documents, that Washington, from early youth, was indefatigably industrious; inasmuch, that it may be truly affirmed, that he was an utter stranger to idleness.

No youth, it appears, surpassed him in persevering assiduity. Whatsoever his mind dictated, or his hand found to do, he did it with all his might. Truth and utility he steadily pursued and generally attained. The integrity of Washington has never been questioned. His real motives were openly avowed. His ends were always upright and his means pure. His education was plain. His opportunities for the early acquisition of knowledge from books, were limited. It is believed that he was familiar with a few only of the best English authors. Yet by knowing the character of his countrymen thoroughly, by the union of diligent thought, patient enquiry, unwearied reflection and correct taste—he filled a sound and vigorous mind with many and momentous ideas. These were wholly practical, and he always applied them with precision and energy to their proper objects. Washington was punctual in all his engagements; temperate in his enjoyments—liberal, hospitable and urbane, and such a lover of order, that he was exact and methodical in every transaction. In fine, he was a dutiful son, a good husband, a just master, a kind neighbor, a fond brother, and an exemplary step-father. In private life, as well as in public profession, without ostentation of piety he was the sincere friend of morality and religion. Who that reflects upon the worth and wisdom of such a man, can doubt that it is upon the immutable basis of private virtues that the immortality of his public renown reposes?

KOSCIUSKO.

WARSAW, DEC. 8.—The following is the excellent Funeral Oration on Kosciusko, delivered by his companion in arms, the celebrated Polish author, Mr. Von Niemcewicz, on the occasion of his funeral solemnity, Nov. 14.

This mournful solemnity—this homage to the dead—these flaming torches—this multitude of assembled nobles and people—these mournful accents of the revered priests—all, all announce to us a bitter, an irreparable loss.—But what can I add to the suggestions of your own feelings—what to the words of the revered servant of religion? Ah! it does not beat these grey hairs bending forward into the grave—it does not become my mind, enfeebled by years and fatigues, to speak of the man of peace and war. But it is your pleasure that I should address you: and disregarding my own unworthiness for the task, I will obey you; and following the dictates of my own grief, will become the interpreter of the general sorrow. Our country has suffered many and great losses within the course of these few years—but no loss fills us with greater sorrow than that which we bewail in the death of our Thaddeus Kosciusko. To pronounce the name of Kosciusko awakens in the heart of every Pole a thousand grateful, but at the same time a thousand mournful recollections—it recalls a pattern of civic virtue, that patriotism which flamed in his breast with the purest fire till his last fight; his intrepid courage in battle, his manly perseverance in misfortune, his Roman simplicity of manners and his modesty, which is always the inseparable companion of true merit.

Before history describes our misfortunes, and portrays the transcendent merits of the man, it may be allowed his contemporaries to take a brief view of his life and deeds. Thaddeus Kosciusko sprung from an ancient family in the Waywolskip of Ethnian Bresk, received his first education in the military school, founded at that time by Stanislaus Augustus. The commandant of this school, Prince Adam Czartoryski, observed in this youth an uncommon talent and love for the military art, and sent him at his own expense, to France, there to be educated. To his last moment Kosciusko remembered with gratitude his benefactor. The state of weakness and subjection under which Poland then labored excited in the heart of the youth deep sorrow and despair. He proceeded therefore to a foreign land to fight for Independence, as no opportunity offered of struggling for it in his own native soil. A companion of the immortal WASHINGTON, he boldly shared his dangers and his battles, from Hudson's river to the Potomac, and from the Atlantic Ocean to the lakes of Canada—he endured incredible hardships, he gained a flattering renown, and what was more than all this, he obtained the gratitude of a free people.

Already did the Flag of the United States float over the American forts—already was the great work of liberation completed, before Kosciusko returned to his native land.

Just then the Polish nation aroused from its fatal lethargy—alas! too late! had obtained the re-usable constitution proclaimed on the 3d of May, and declared its determination to submit to no laws but its own. Thence hostile attacks—thence the war that ensued. Say ye imperishable witnesses—say ye plains of Dubinki—say, if Kosciusko & his Polish hands did not fight a battle for the Polish name? It was not the overpowering of our feeble means, but the crafty plots of our enemies, which wrested the weapons from our hands, and quenched our burning ardour for the contest. But so it happened—we were paralysed—we felt so, when in a short time the insulted dignity of our nation, and the perfidious dismemberment of our provinces, again stirred up our bitterest indignation. The excess of our misfortunes roused the nation to a noble despair—our agonized country again seized the sword and put it into the hands of Kosciusko.

The ties which unite us with a fraternalized nation, the possession of a common Sovereign, and our gratitude to the emperor Alexander, forbid me to enlarge on the events of this celebrated war.—Kosciusko led against disciplined nations, not bodies of troops, distinguished for their regular array and military splendor but bands of peasants armed with the implements of husbandry. Yet in how many battles, how many sieges, how many frightful nightly attacks, how many skirmishes, did he not lead them on to glory! our soil was reddened with the blood of our champions before it became our tomb. The results of so many sacrifices were cruel fetters. We wore them for two years—they would even have continued longer—and thus Kosciusko, wouldst not have ended thy lamented days in thy free residence of Solerue, nor would thy thousand companions have ended their wretched existence on their own soil, but would have died in foreign chains had it not been for the magnanimous Emperor Paul I.—The first act of his sovereignty was the breaking of the chains of 20,000 Poles. Thanks to thy revered shade! Poland will always pronounce the name of Paul with gratitude.

When Kosciusko was liberated, he never more returned to his mourning country, to a land which had now become a foreign land to him. He directed his view to a distant region, where, when a youth he had fought for freedom, and which as it was free, he adopted as his second country. Although lame and covered with wounds, he did not permit himself to be deterred from his purpose by the hardships or the dangers of a sea voyage. On this passage the depth of the ocean had nearly become the grave of our champion. In the darkness of night a ship, belonging to a fleet of merchantmen returning from Jamaica, having parted from the rest, and sailing with incredible speed, ran foul of the American vessel in which we were. Masts, rigging and sails, became entangled, and these two heavy vessels dashed against each other with violence. The terror and confusion of the passengers on deck were general—death appeared before the eyes of all. In this frightful moment Kosciusko alone maintained his usual composure. His last hour was not yet come, Providence decreed that he should live to see the day when the magnanimous Alexander would proclaim the erection of the Kingdom of Poland.—With the loss of main-mast and sails, our vessel escaped this imminent danger: our melancholy voyage lasted 70 days. At last we espied the shores of the happy America—Pennsylvania, the land of Wm. Penn. and Franklin, received Kosciusko into its bosom. After so many disasters this was our first joyful blessed moment. The members of the assembled congress his old companions in arms, his acquaintance and all the people came to welcome his arrival, surrounded the carriage of the hero, still alive, from his wounds, and accompanied him to his place of residence. It was not only in America, but in all places through which he passed after his liberation, in Stockholm, London, and Bristol, that all those who cherished the love of freedom in their breasts pressed to see him, and to offer him proofs of their esteem. It is gratifying to the heart of every Pole to behold, in the honors paid to the heroic defender of their independence, respect and regret for an unjustly extinguished nation.

Whether it was from the impulse of deceitful hope, or from the wish of consulting able physicians for the restoration of his health, Kosciusko once more was induced to set his foot on the shores of Europe. Already had he learned the nothingness of promises, and the fruitless nature of all human exertions, and therefore removed to a distance from the din of the great world, and even from its praises. He enveloped himself in his own virtues, if I may use the phrase, and retired into rural seclusion. Here agriculture was his employment, friendship his consolation, and the joy of his life. He only, once left this tranquil retreat, and that was to see the august Alexander, to thank him for restoring the Polish name. His aversion for all public employment increasing with his years, and his love of retirement and tranquility, carried him to Switzerland. There, in the state of Solerue, on the 25th of October, God took away this virtuous spirit, after so many severe sorrows and hard trials, to the abodes of the blessed. Kosciusko died, as it becomes every Christian to die, with pious trust in God, with calm and manly composure. Poor as Phocion and Cincinnatus, his prototypes, he bore all splendid ceremony to be buried at his funeral. The body of this man, who commanded thousands of armed followers in the field of honor, was carried to the abode of everlasting repose to us all, by six grey-haired paupers.

Peace to thy shade, thou virtuous man! Receive the last adieu of thy lamenting countrymen; receive the last farewell of him on whose arms thy agonizing head has often reposed. If the mould of our soil does not cover thy mortal remains—if thy spirit hovers there, where the last Roman lives, may thy remembrance always remain in a lively manner among us; may thy picture, which shall be placed in the sanctuary of the Lord, as it recalls thy features, likewise present to us the goodness of thy heart, and the purity of thy spirit. Let it be simple as thy life—let it be without any inscription—thy name is enough. When, in after times, a countryman or a stranger, with tears in his eyes, shall look upon the stone erected to thy memory, he will say to himself, "This was the man who did not allow his country, tho' it fell, to fall ingloriously, and who, by his virtues, honored the Polish name."

Died.

On the 20th inst. at his residence in Yorktown, N. York, JOHN PAULING, one of the three incorruptible patriots who arrested Major Andre, during the revolutionary war. A corps of cadets from West Point attended his funeral, which was conducted with military and massive honors. His venerable compatriots, Williams and Van Wert, were yet living.

ng head has often reposed. If the mould of our soil does not cover thy mortal remains—if thy spirit hovers there, where the last Roman lives, may thy remembrance always remain in a lively manner among us; may thy picture, which shall be placed in the sanctuary of the Lord, as it recalls thy features, likewise present to us the goodness of thy heart, and the purity of thy spirit. Let it be simple as thy life—let it be without any inscription—thy name is enough.

When, in after times, a countryman or a stranger, with tears in his eyes, shall look upon the stone erected to thy memory, he will say to himself, "This was the man who did not allow his country, the it fell, to fall ignominiously, and who, by his virtues, honored the Polish name."

Died.

On the 20th inst. at his residence in Yorktown, N. York, JOHN PAULING, one of the three incorruptible patriots who arrested Major Andre, during the revolutionary war. A corps of cadets from West Point attended his funeral, which was conducted with military and masonic honors. His venerable compatriots, Williams and Van Wert, were yet living.

Fan-ash Making.

METAL FAN-SASHES, of various descriptions, will be made by the subscriber, at his shop, lower end of Duke street. The want of a Metal Fan-Sash Manufacture in Alexandria, has hitherto been severely felt by builders and others, who have been compelled to make use of wood, which is neither elegant nor durable. The various forms into which the metal can be shaped have given it a decided superiority, and the difference in the price is very trifling. The subscriber has been at considerable expence in procuring the necessary preparations, and relies on public enterprise for success in the undertaking.
Gentlemen in the country, by sending the dimensions of their sashes, can have them made at the same price as if in town.

Dr. Bascome,

SURGEON DENTIST.
LATE from the city of Philadelphia, on his way to the southward, will continue a few days in this place, at the boarding house of Mrs. Ashton, on Fairfax-street, near the post office, where he will perform every operation in the line of his profession, to the satisfaction of those who may honor him with their notice. He will wait on those who may prefer it at their respective places of residence.

Dr. B. extracts decayed teeth without injury the gums or jaws—or fills with gold those that are defective so as to render them perfectly sound and free from pain. He likewise separates and cleanses them from tartar, by which means they may be kept free from scurvy, and will replace such as are wanting with artificial teeth that cannot be discovered from those of natural growth.

To Ironmongers and others.

RICHARD SLADE offers for sale that very valuable establishment, corner of King and Patrick streets, consisting of an extensive assortment of HARDWARE and IRONMONGERY, imported from England in 1817 at very low prices. The late advances at the manufactures in Birmingham and Shel-field presents an average of 15 per cent increase on all the goods on hand. This circumstance is mentioned as an inducement to purchasers.

30 or 40 tons Swedish bar iron, principally tire and plough plates.
180 casks cut and wrought nails, and other domestic articles suited to the trade.

The WAREHOUSE for lease, being the most eligible for the Virginia, and western trade to any in Alexandria.

On application the terms, which are very liberal, will be given; and, if preferred, an extensive credit is offered for an equivalent.

A few packages of Hardware in addition to the above stock—among which a quantity of grass and grain Scythes, will be in the first spring vessel to this port.

Valuable Land for Sale.
THE subscriber wishes to sell two valuable Tracts of Land—one situated in the upper part of Fairfax county, adjoining the lands of Samuel G. Griffith, and bounded north by the Potomac river, containing 700 acres, about one half in wood; of the cleared land a considerable proportion is first river bottom, equal in fertility to any in Virginia; the upland is well situated for farming and of a good quality. There is also a mill seat on the Tract of considerable value. This farm is worth the attention of any person wishing to engage in the farming business, as it certainly is not exceeded by any in the county (perhaps state) as a farm of profit, and may be had on reasonable terms. Mr. John Beckler, who resides near the land, will show it, and Mr. Wm. McCarty of Loudoun county, or Mr. John W. Brough of Georgetown, D. C. will make known the terms. If this Tract is not disposed of before the 2nd of MARCH, it will then be exposed to PUBLIC SALE, at Wiley's Tavern, on the road leading from Alexandria to Leesburg.
The other Tract contains 1000 acres, and is the upper and most valuable part of the Tract I live on. It is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and bounded N. by Accotink creek. This Tract will be divided to suit purchasers, if found necessary. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber living at Cedar Grove, who will show the land and make known the terms.

Sully for Sale.
THIS Estate, situated in the county of Fairfax, twenty-two miles from Alexandria, and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike passes through it half a mile from the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of improving husbandry, Plaster of Paris acting with powerful and immediate effect on all grasses and grains. The fields present a good surface for cultivation, and those now untillied are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed; the out-houses are conveniently situated, and the whole have been lately thoroughly repaired and painted. The farm houses, which are all nearly new, are expensive and excellent in their kind.
For gentlemen of leisure this would be a delightful residence; and a profitable estate for an active farmer. The title is indisputable, and perfectly unincumbered.
A number of well taught orderly young men, with good stocks and farming utensils of all kinds and the crops of the present year if desired, will be at the command of the purchaser.
Application may be made to the subscriber living on the premises, next the post-office at Pleasant Valley, in Fairfax.

Valuable Family Medicines.
JUST received, direct from the proprietors, the following valuable MEDICINES, all of which have been in use for a number of years past, in almost every part of the United States; have been highly patronized by people of the first respectability; and approved by those who have had occasion to make use of them, for the cure of those disorders for which they are severally calculated.
Dr. Lee's Genuine (Windham) Bilious Pills.
Universally known and used throughout the United States as a family medicine. The fame of these pills has become so great, that many have attempted to counterfeit them—to guard against this, the proprietors have procured a stereotype label, and each box of Genuine Lee's Pills will hereafter be enclosed in one of these labels, with these words on the sides: "Lee's Genuine Windham Bilious Pills," and on the end of the label the words, "Samuel Lee, patentee, &c. I. Thompson, agent, joint proprietor," &c. and should any be offered for sale without said label on them, the purchaser may be assured that they are counterfeit.
Dr. Thompson's celebrated Eye Water.
For the cure of inflamed and sore eyes of almost every description. This valuable preparation comes highly recommended from the most respectable sources.—Price 50 and 25 cents a bottle.
Dr. Watson's Genuine Itch Ointment.
A certain and safe cure for that disagreeable complaint, as well as other eruptions of the skin. Price 50 cents a box.
Dr. Rawson's Anti-Bilious and Clonic Bitters.
For weakly and infirm constitutions. Price 50 cents a box.
Hinckley's Infallible Remedy for the Piles.
A most valuable medicine. Price 50 cents a box.
Thompson's Aromatic Tooth Paste.
For whitening and preserving the teeth—it may be used with the greatest safety. Price 50 cents a box.
Specific Drops for the Tooth Ache.
Which, in almost every case, gives instant relief in that distressing complaint. Price 30 cents a bottle.
Cooley's Vegetable Elixir for Coughs, Asthma, Consumptions, &c.
A very valuable medicine in those complaints. Price 50 cents a bottle.
For sale, in Alexandria, by Dr. Richard H. Little; in Washington City, by Dr. David Ott; in Georgetown, by Dr. John Ott, Otho M. Linchum & Co. and Nathaniel Jewett.

James Kennedy & Son,
RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from LEE'S MEDICINE STORE, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:
Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges.
Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.
This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humors and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.
Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.
Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Terebra or large round worm; the Ascarides or small raw-worm; the Cucurbitinae or short flat white worms; and lastly, the Tenia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.
Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and foetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.
Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.
A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.
Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.
The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

one of these labels, with these words on the sides: "Lee's Genuine Windham Bilious Pills," and on the end of the label the words, "Samuel Lee, patentee, &c. I. Thompson, agent, joint proprietor," &c. and should any be offered for sale without said label on them, the purchaser may be assured that they are counterfeit.

For the prevention and cure of
is recommended
HAIN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.
The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.
Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.
It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason to believe that a dose of these Pills taken in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.
The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance; they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.
They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.
